Public health officials urge caution around respiratory illnesses

COVID-19 hospitalizations up in recent weeks, masks recommended in certain settings

By Andrew Adams
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

The Illinois Department of Public Health is advising Illinoisans to take precautions to avoid spreading respiratory illnesses as cases around the state and country are on the rise.

IDPH recently issued a health alert to hospitals, long-term care facilities and local health departments advising the use of masks and using screening techniques to reduce the spread of COVID-19 and other respiratory illnesses, particularly in areas of the state with elevated levels of COVID-19 hospitalizations.

Hospitalizations for COVID-19 were up 22 percent statewide during the week ending Dec. 16, compared to the week before.

Eight west-central Illinois counties are now at "high" levels of COVID-19 hospitalizations according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. This means that there were more than 20 hospitalizations per 100,000 people in those counties during the most recent week for which data is available. Iroquois and Kankakee counties in northern Illinois also face high hospitalizations.

Hospital admissions related to COVID-19 have made up around 3 to 4 percent of all admissions in the past month, according to data on respiratory illnesses from IDPH, the highest they have been since this time last year. Hospitalizations for other respiratory illnesses have also spiked in recent weeks.

These figures are still far below the peaks seen in late 2020 and early 2022, when COVID-19 accounted for roughly 18 percent and 25 percent of hospital admissions respectively.

While statewide hospitalization rates remain at "low" levels according to the CDC, neighboring states Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri and Iowa all face elevated levels, which has caused some concern for officials at IDPH.

"With the alarming rise in respiratory viruses we are seeing across the state and the country, IDPH is recommending healthcare facilities take precautions to reduce the spread of these viruses and protect their patients, staffs and visitors," IDPH Director Dr. Sameer Vohra said in a statement last week.

In addition to the coronavirus, IDPH tracks hospital admissions stemming from influenza and respiratory syncytial virus, a common respiratory virus often referred to as RSV that can be dangerous for certain high-risk individuals, like those with asthma or COPD.

For all Illinoisans, IDPH recommended taking precautions for holiday gatherings, particularly for those at high risk of complications from a respiratory infection like older or very young individuals.

This includes practicing good hand hygiene and proper indoor ventilation for any gatherings. For someone experiencing symptoms of a respiratory illness, like coughing, sneezing, sore throat, runny nose or a fever, IDPH encourages testing and staying home if possible.

Vaccinations for COVID-19 and the flu are available at most pharmacies. A vaccination for RSV is available for those age 60 and older and for some pregnant people.

In some state-run facilities, COVID-19 infections have already interrupted daily life. Earlier this month, the state Department of Human Services announced that several COVID-19 outbreaks had occurred at state-operated developmental centers in Waukegan, Park Forest, Centralia, Anna and Kankakee.

In response, IDHS reduced communal dining, group activities and some planned outings, and introduced social distancing and quarantine measures for those served at the centers.

The number of people testing positive for COVID-19 in these state-run centers has fallen since the beginning of the month, with 12 residents and 22 staff members testing positive as of Dec. 18, down from 58 residents and 35 staff members on Dec. 6.

"IDPH has been working closely with our counterparts at IDHS facilities to monitor conditions, to offer strategies to contain any outbreaks, and to provide resources, direct consultations and assessments," Hilary Spencer, head of the IDPH infection prevention team, said in an early December news release.

The Lake County Forest preserves recycle holiday trees into wood chips for trails and landscaping in the preserves. Eight locations are accepting holiday trees until Feb. 1, 2024.

Turn your holiday tree into trails

8 forest preserves offering tree recycling

From festive to forest. Recycle your tree for a greener tomorrow

Don't send your holiday tree to the landfill. Donate it to the Lake County Forest Preserves, and they'll recycle it into wood chips for trails and landscaping in your forest preserves.

Bring your real, undecorated tree to one of eight marked drop-off sites at preserves around Lake County, open 6:30 am-sunset daily, through February 1, 2024. No yard waste or commercial drop-offs are accepted.

Locations for tree drop offs are as follows:

- Grant Woods Forest Preserve, 25405 W. Monaville Road, Ingleside
- Greenbelt Forest Preserve, 1110 Green Bay Road, North Chicago
- Half Day, 24255 Milwaukee Ave., Vernon Hills
- Heron Creek, 22890 N. Old McHenry Road, Lake Zurich
- Lakewood Forest Preserve, 27277 Forest Preserve Road, Wauconda

- Old School Forest Preserve, 28285 St. Mary's Road, Mettawa
- Ryerson Conservation Area 21950 N. Riverwoods Road, Riverwoods
- Van Patten Woods Forest Preserve, 15838 W. Route 173, Wadsworth

Facts about the tree donations

The Lake County Forest Preserves has been accepting trees for recycling for at least 20 years.

Most years more than 1,000 trees are donated.

The majority of the trees are mulched for use on trails.

Some are used to create "fish cribs." Staff ties several trees together and sinks them with a cinderblock in larger lakes, particularly those that were formerly gravel quarries and lack substantial underwater vegetation. These lakes benefit from the fish cribs, as they serve as crucial habitats for fish.

MHS physical education department earns second Blue Ribbon Award

The McHenry High School District 156 physical education department scored a repeat Blue Ribbon Award for excellence from the Illinois Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (IAHPERD) after a yearlong effort to showcase the department's approach to educating the whole student.

District officials and physical education teachers and administrators received the Blue Ribbon Award plaque and banner during a Nov. 30 ceremony in Tinley Park where the IAHPERD held its annual convention.

The award recognizes programs at both Upper Campus and Freshman Campus for innovative curriculum, consistent instruction, facility use, student involvement and more. This is the second time the PE department has earned the award.

"This award represents the incredible dedication and commitment of our P.E. staff in building one of the most innovative, inclusive, dynamic, and progressive physical education curriculums in the entire state," said Dr. Ryan McTague, superintendent of McHenry Community High School District 156.

In addition to the plaque and banner, McHenry High School's physical education department teachers will be invited to give a presentation about the department at an upcoming association conference.

IAHPERD officials look at several things when evaluating physical education programs for the Blue Ribbon, such as curriculum, instruction, facilities among other criteria. Evaluators cited the extensive use of technology in physical education programs and celebrations for student achievements and variety of options as examples of a strong program.

The PE Department offers courses in Leadership, Adventure Education, Aquatic Fitness, Swimming Basics, Lifeguarding, Dance, Fitness for Life, Adaptive P.E, Strength & Conditioning, and Team Sports. Students at Freshman Campus have the opportunities to take introductory level courses before moving to advanced classes at Upper Campus.

"Teachers at MCHS prioritize creating a curriculum tailored to the diverse needs and interests of all students," said Jennifer Beattie, district division chair of physical education, health and driver education. "They take pride in fostering a positive learning environment and emphasize the importance of building strong relationships with their students."

Prisoner Review Board releases final Illinoisan serving life sentence for 'three-strikes' drug offense

Charles Collins was sentenced to life in 2010 for cocaine offenses

By Beth Hundsdorfer
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

For at least two hours of the ride home, Charles Collins feared someone was following his father's car, looking to take him back to prison for the rest of his life.

At an interstate rest stop between Western Illinois Correctional Center and Chicago, Collins said the reality of his freedom settled in and he let go of the anxiety. He would be with his family for Christmas for the first time in 14 years.

"It's going to be a party, that's for sure," he said during an interview.

Collins, 49, was sentenced to life in prison without parole in relation to a 2010 charge for cocaine possession with intent to sell. It was his third felony, making him eligible for an enhanced sentence under the state's habitual criminal, or "three-strikes," law. He had two prior felonies on drug trafficking charges from 1998 to 2007 that made him eligible for the enhanced sentence. The judge told him she had no choice, he recalled, before she sentenced him to life without the possibility of parole.

"For a minute, it didn't sink in. I was shocked that the judge went through with it," Collins said.

The three-strikes law allows that if a defendant is convicted more than three times of the same or similar offenses, the judge can aggravate the crime to one that is eligible for a life sentence. The law was designed to combat recidivism, but advocates argue it was draconian and unfairly targeted minority defendants.

Jennifer Soble, the executive director for the Illinois

Prison Project, an advocacy group for incarcerated people, noted in 2020 that 75 percent of people serving life sentences in Illinois were African American and 94 percent of people serving life sentences in Illinois for a third strike for armed robbery or drugs were African American or Latino.

Collins was the last man serving life in the Illinois Department of Corrections under the three-strikes law for drug offenses, Illinois Prison Project legal director Candice Chambliss said.

Earlier this year, Gov. JB

Pritzker commuted the life sentence for the three people who were doing life without parole for drugs under the three-strikes law. One of those offenders, Michael Lightfoot, 67, received clemency and was released from Danville Correctional Center last month.

Pritzker commuted Collins' sentence in February 2023 from life without the possibility of parole to parole eligible. In a rare move, the Illinois Prisoner Review Board voted unanimously last week for Collins' release.

The Illinois Prison Project took up the cause of three-strikers in 2020, providing legal representation for incarcerated individuals. It currently has 74 pending cases for inmates serving three-strikes sentences for non-drug offenses. To date, 27 people have been released through commutation, parole, or medical release, according to Chambliss. Thirty-three others have been denied, and six people died before the governor issued a decision.

The scope of the three-strikes law has been narrowed over the years—including as part of the criminal justice reform known as the Safety, Accountability, Fairness and Equity-Today, or SAFE-T Act—but the statute remains on the books in Illinois. While one lawmaker proposed a measure in the spring session that would have fully repealed it, the legislation failed to gain support in the General Assembly and did not receive a vote in committee.

"Gov. Pritzker is a lifelong advocate for criminal justice reform and signed legislation making our criminal justice system more equitable," Pritzker Spokesperson Jordan Abudayyeh said in a statement. "The SAFE-T Act reformed the habitual offender law to ensure it is used only in the most serious circumstances."

After his 2010 arrest, Collins spent months in Cook County Jail before he was transferred to IDOC, eventually

Santa makes early stop in Antioch

Christmas came a few days early for an Antioch boy thanks to the assistance of his friends, neighbors, and the Antioch Police and Fire Departments.

Eight-year-old Joey was born with a congenital heart defect and has been facing several other medical issues, including a recent challenge that required knee surgery.

Since he was in the hospital, Joey missed his annual visit with Santa at The Penny's Purpose NFP.

April Soulak-Andrews, president and founder of The Penny's Purpose NFP, made a few phone calls and was able to arrange to have Santa Claus make an early visit from the North Pole to visit Joey. Santa was escorted by members of the Village of Antioch Police Department (Officers Schultz, Phares, and CSO Page) and the Antioch Fire Department

Joey, we hope you recover quickly and successfully from your surgery. We hope today helped make this Christmas a little more special for you and your family. Merry Christmas!

ending up at Menard Correctional Center in Chester. He said fellow inmates who had been convicted of violent offenses could not believe he was sentenced to life without parole. For years, Collins spent time in the law library in the prison to try to find a way to have his sentence reconsidered. "I knew it was time for me to get to work; that it couldn't end this way for me," Collins said.

Mira de Jong, an attorney with the Illinois Prison Project, took his case in 2020.

In an interview with Capitol News Illinois, de Jong noted that none of the crimes used to aggravate Collins' sentence were violent but were drug offenses normally punishable by a maximum of 15 years.

"Most times, the sentence does not take into account growth and change. The system isn't designed to help people," de Jong said. "I don't think there's a lot of space for redemption there."

After his commutation, Collins was transferred to Western Correctional Center in Mount Sterling. It was there that Collins had access to educational and reintegration programs, he said. He took advantage of the opportunities—achievements noted by the parole board.

After the holidays, Collins said he's going to try to get his commercial driver's license reinstated. A friend offered him a job driving a truck and later financing to start his own trucking business.

He knows he has missed a lot, time with his children and grandmother, celebrating graduations, birthdays, and holidays, grieving deaths. Through it all, Collins said his family was his constant.

Charles Dunn, Collins' father and best friend, was at the Prisoner Review Board hearing in Springfield last week.

He made the call to Collins to let him know the board's decision.

Collins was in the barber shop at Western Illinois Correctional Center when he received that call from Dunn, who was standing outside the hearing room.

"You made it!" Dunn told Collins. "You are coming home!"

Within 24 hours, he was on the road, headed home, looking over his shoulder for the first half of the trip. He didn't want to eat, he said. He just wanted to get home to Chicago. The only stop on the way was that rest stop where he realized no one was behind them.

"I think I have done all the right things. I have taken responsibility for my actions. I have shown remorse for those poor decisions. I have worked to be rehabilitated," Collins said. "Now, I am just ready to make a life."

Join history enthusiasts for a journey through Lake County's past

The 9th annual Lake County History Symposium takes place virtually on Zoom from 6:30-8:30 pm on January 4 and 18. Good Neighbors: Making a Difference in Lake County, is this year's theme.

Experience engaging presentations from a diverse array of historians, ranging from seasoned professionals to enthusiastic hobbyists. This annual event unites individuals with a shared passion for delving into the rich historical tapestry of Lake County history.

Prepare to be captivated by a wide spectrum of topics, which include a fascinating story of a local nurse's club, an empowering legacy of a women's club, heartwarming anecdotes of random acts of kindness and a deep exploration of the life and times of Samuel Insull (1859-1938). The prominent businessman left a mark on Lake County through the construction of a splendid country estate that now stands as the illustrious Cuneo Mansion.

"This event presents an opportunity to immerse ourselves in eccentric or less-explored facets of our communities," said Museum Educator Sarah Salto. "History enthusiasts will motivate us with inspiring narratives of remarkable individuals and organizations that have left an imprint on society, tirelessly striving to enhance the fabric of Lake County."

Each evening features three presentations. Register for both days to experience all six. Breakout rooms will be open at the end of the presentations for participants to ask questions and engage in dialogue. All ages are welcome. USG is sponsoring the free event.

Registration is required for each day you would like to attend and can be done on their website at https://www.lcfd.org/calendar/?F_c=1158.

Volunteers needed for homeless 'Point In Time' count in January

Join the fight to help end homelessness by participating in the Lake County 2024 Point In Time (PIT) Count. Volunteers are needed the night of Wednesday, Jan. 31 to search across Lake County to interview, count, and offer assistance to unsheltered homeless people.

Volunteers can create their own teams of two to five people or volunteer as an individual and be paired up with a team. All volunteers must be over the age of 18 and attend a virtual training.

The data gathered during the Point In Time Count will capture a picture of what homelessness looks like on any given day, help coordinate services for people experiencing homelessness, and provide organizations with the information needed to work towards the goal of ending homelessness in Lake County.

Additional information including how to register can be found on the Lake County Coalition for the Homeless website at <https://www.lake-countyhomeless.org/get-involved/volunteer>.

Driver charged with DUI causing death

Lake County Sheriff's Office Traffic Crash Investigators conducted a thorough investigation into this crash, which killed George V. Giannakakis, who was 73 years old at the time of the crash.

Following the investigation, traffic crash investigators determined the driver of the GMC, Craig B. Muzard, 74, now of the 4000 block of Illinois Street, unincorporated Crystal Lake, was driving under the influence of cocaine at the time of the crash. His being under the influence played a direct role in the crash and death of Giannakakis.

After reviewing the facts and circumstances of the crash and subsequent investigation, the Lake County State's Attorney's Office approved the following charges against Muzard: Aggravated Driving

Craig B. Muzard

Under the Influence of Drugs Resulting in Death (class 2 felony) and Reckless Homicide (class 3 felony). Sheriff John D. Idleburg said, "The tragic death of Mr. Giannakakis is another sad example of someone being killed by the reckless actions of another. While nothing will bring Mr. Giannakakis back, I am happy the first step of justice has been taken. Our traffic crash investigators will always hold drunk, drugged, and distracted drivers accountable for their selfish actions."

Muzard was arrested in the morning of December 20 at his residence by the Lake County Sheriff's Office Warrants Team, without incident. Muzard remains held in the Lake County Jail pending First Appearance Court.

Fatal Unincorporated Lake Villa Traffic Crash (issued February 4, 2023)

On February 3, 2023, at approximately 9:50 p.m., Lake County Sheriff's Deputies were dispatched to Route 59 south of Route 132, Unincorporated Lake Villa, for a head-on traffic crash. Sheriff's deputies arrived and located a GMC Acadia and Kia Sorento with major damage.

Preliminary investigation shows the GMC, driven by a 74-year-old man of Unincorporated Lake Villa, was traveling northbound on Route 59. For an unknown reason, the driver of the GMC veered into the southbound lanes of traffic. The GMC struck the southbound Kia, driven by a 73-year-old man of Ingleside, head-on. Witnesses reported the GMC was swerving prior to the crash.

Both drivers were transported to Advocate Condell Medical Center in Libertyville with critical injuries. The driver of the Kia was pronounced deceased shortly after arriving at the hospital. The driver of the GMC remains at the hospital in critical condition.

Impairment appears to be a factor in the crash, however, the investigation continues. The Lake County Coroner's Office is scheduling an autopsy for the driver of the Kia.

The crash remains under investigation by the Lake County Sheriff's Office Technical Crash Investigations Team.

Deputy Bodway and K9 Enzo are shown with their certification of completion from their police dog training program.

Sheriff's Office welcomes new K9 to force

The McHenry County Sheriff's Office recently welcomed the newest member of the force - K9 Enzo.

On Nov. 17, Enzo and his new partner, Deputy Bodway, graduated from their 8-week police dog training program. Enzo, a German shepherd, is specially trained in obedience, searching and tracking, narcotics detection and handler protection.

Enzo joins K9 Deuce, K9 Jett and K9 Kylo on the Sheriff's Office K9 Unit. These four units patrol the county, assist in enforcement and provide backup to other deputies.
