

The Union Grove Performing Arts Department made history with its presentation of "Alice in Wonderland" last fall, in which all three performances sold out. While spring performances by the department historically sell out, last November was the first time in school history a fall play sold out. "Alice in Wonderland," directed by Rob Kroes, featured a cast and crew of more than 45 students, from freshmen to seniors. It combined live actors with original puppets that were hand-designed and created by assistant director Kim Sandberg and dressed by costume designer lan Anderson.

Beautifying the Village of Union Grove

Student athletes work together to bolster community pride

The Student Athlete Leadership Team, of Union Grove Union High School continue to make a difference and in the spring of 2023, students partnered with the GoFrankGo Foundation on a village beautification project intended to welcome visitors and bolster community pride.

About a dozen SALT members worked together to replace rotting timbers, plant bushes, and flowers, and add mulch to three of four entry signs into Union Grove.

The three entrances are east of Highway 11 and Lincolnwood Drive, south at Highway 45 and 18th Avenue, and west at Highway 11 and Industrial Park Drive.

While students came together, the work would not have been possible with supportive businesses, including Garden of Eder Nursery in Franksville along Bower Design and Construction from Union Grove.

Garden of Eder donated landscape design and the planting for the entrance sign project while Bower Design contributed timbers and construction guidance.

"We're grateful to Jeremy (Eder) and his team at Eder, and Chris (Bower) and the Bower team, for their support of our community and of our kids," said Chairperson Jason Callewaert, of the GoFrankGo Foundation.

"We're even more thankful for the members of SALT, who have enthusiastically embraced this opportunity to serve our community."

SALT was formed in 2015 by Union Grove teacher Emily Paskiewicz, who along with fellow teacher Annie Sireno serve as volunteer advisors to the group.

SALT is comprised of student athletes, an average of two to four members from each Union Grove sports team. The Union Grove SALT group is the first of its kind in the U.S. and was selected to make a presentation the WIAA Board of Review.

According to Paskiewicz, the group is committed to teaching leadership, with the purpose of helping SALT members learn to make good choices, become positive role models, and encourage others in the school to follow their lead.

"Our mission for SALT is clearly defined," she said. "We work to support all athletic teams, improve the overall school climate, encourage volunteerism among students, develop student leaders, and support game officials with appreciation gifts."

Callewaert said the mission of SALT aligns perfectly with that of the GoFrankGo Foundation, setting up an ideal partnership.

"The GoFrankGo Foundation fully embraces and supports everything that SALT is doing for our student leaders," Callewaert said. "As a foundation, we've committed doing all we can to help the impact of SALT here in Union Grove and elsewhere as more and more groups are formed."

WELCOME TO Own

The Village of Union Grove and surrounding communities serve as the focal point of Racine County.

In addition to Union Grove, which presents many opportunities for residents and visitors, the villages of Yorkville and Raymond and the Town Dover are also areas worth exploring.

The Village of Union Grove, home of the Racine County Fairgrounds, consists of about 5,000 residents and hundreds of businesses.

While the Racine County Fairgrounds offers events beyond the annual County Fair, the area has many recreational opportunities, including Eagle Lake in Kansasville.

Other opportunities include Modine Benstead Observatory – which offers a glimpse into astronomy, while avid golfers can take up a friendly game at Ives Grove Golf Links.

While Union Grove and neighboring communities have seen growth – both residential and commercial – the area still touts a small-town atmosphere with families in mind.

Primarily located along the Highway 45 corridor, intersecting with Highway 11, area residents have easy access to larger communities.

Union Grove grad to reign over State Fair

Kelsey Henderson chosen as this year's ambassador

By Jason Arndt

EDITOR

Kelsey Henderson spent countless hours representing the Racine County Fair last year in her role as the 2023 Fairest of the Fair.

Henderson, 21, who earned the title last June at the county fairgrounds in Union Grove, channeled her passion for agriculture and the fair by welcoming visitors, highlighting exhibitors, and showcasing events.

Now, the reigning Fairest of the Fair will represent more than Racine County, with Henderson receiving the Wisconsin Fairest of the Fair crown in January at Chula Vista Resort in the Wisconsin Dells.

She was selected among 35 contestants and became just the second from Racine County to earn the crown. The first was in 2012 when Richelle Kastenson became the Wisconsin Fairest of the Fair.

Kastenson, who was on hand during the Wisconsin Fairest of Fairs convention, said she and other Racine County Fair Board members are beaming with pride at Henderson's achievement.

"She is a wonderful person inside and out, so we are very excited that she also gets to represent our county," Kastenson said. "Seeing Kelsey up on stage, she was really fun to listen to."

Kastenson recalled her own tenure as Wisconsin Fairest and believes Henderson is up to the challenge.

"Our fair board and our fairest committee on the county level are just so proud of Kelsey," Kastenson said. "She represented us so well, and she has just done a great job this year. We are so excited for what her future holds and how she is going to represent everyone. She is going to do a phenomenal job."

'Truly blessed'

Henderson, like other contestants, participated in many interviews in various settings – and interacted with other officials – before earning the state fairest title.

"I felt truly blessed to be selected, not only as Wisconsin Fairest of the Fair, but I was actually selected Miss Congeniality as well," Henderson said. "Miss Congeniality was voted on by all of my peers in the contest. That almost meant more to me to be recognized by all of them. They were truly an inspirational group."

Henderson succeeds Sharlene Swedlund from Green County and will spend a year traveling throughout the state, promoting the educational, agricultural, social and culture of fairs. Henderson will also promote commercial opportunities available at Wisconsin Fairs, according to Mid-West Farm Report.

She will also serve as an official ambassador for the 2024 Wisconsin State Fair, which will be presented by US Cellular Aug. 1-11 in West Allis.

Henderson will greet fairgoers and special guests, perform as master of ceremonies for events, participate in multiple contests and make multiple media appearances showcasing the Wisconsin State Fair, according to Mid-West Farm Report.

Like her predecessors, Henderson will travel to other county fairs all over the state in 2024.

"There is so much I am looking forward to. I am really excited about the Wisconsin State Fair," Henderson said. "I am super excited to see that in a different light because I was always an exhibitor at it."

During Henderson's tenure, she will learn more about the state's fair industry, including the uniqueness of each county fair.

Henderson said she has always found enjoyment as an exhibitor at the Wisconsin State Fair. As a bonus of being Fairest, she will now be able to experience all 11 days of the event this year.

"I would go every day to the Wisconsin State Fair, so I am super excited to go every day," Henderson said.

Local upbringing

Henderson, who graduated from Union Grove High School in 2020, grew up around the Racine County Fair, exhibiting awardwinning animals and being involved in Union Grove FFA and 4-H.

She is the daughter of Craig and Sue Henderson and has a younger sister, Madisyn.

Kastenson worked with Henderson most of the year representing the Racine County Fair and recognized Henderson's passion.

"She grew up exhibiting at the fair, so she took the passion and shared it with the public and she was helping us with our social media on the fair Facebook page," Kastenson said.

Leading up to the Racine County Fair, Henderson used the Facebook page to interview exhibitors, who talked about their projects set for display at the annual fair.

"This past year, with our fair, she made these really cute videos and she really got to know different exhibitors," Kastenson said.

Since Henderson began as Racine County Fairest of the Fair, she has been impressed with the overwhelming support from the community, including members of the Racine County Fair Board as well as Fairest of the Fair committee members.

"Ever since I was crowned, I have felt nothing but love and support from my county and it truly means the world to me," Henderson said.

Henderson plans to graduate from Iowa State University in May with a degree in agricultural business and a minor in entrepreneurship as well as a marketing option.

When she completes her term as Wisconsin Fairest of the Fair, which will expire in January 2025, Henderson will join John Deere full-time as a Marketing and Customer Support Development Program representative.

She appreciates John Deere for being willing to allow her to serve as Wisconsin Fairest of the Fair until her term will end early next year.

"They were willing to work with me, which I appreciate," she said. "They understand the personal mission that I have."

More to learn

knowledge about the fair industry, Kastenson said.

"She is going to learn a lot about the fairs in Wisconsin and the diversity of them," Kastenson said. "They are all so different and it is such an eye-opening experience seeing how diverse they are and how similar they are.

"It's really a once-in-a-lifetime experience," she added.

Kastenson recalled her own journey as 2012 Wisconsin Fairest of the Fair and expects to see Henderson embark on many expeditions.

"Back when I was fairest during the summer months, I was driving about three to four hours daily to get to different fairs," Kastenson said, adding that she likely attended more than 40 county fairs. "The biggest thing that I took away from it is the connections that I made."

Kastenson said she's confident Henderson will embrace her new role.

"I definitely think she is ready. There is no doubt in my mind that she will do a wonderful job," Kastenson said.

Shari Black, CEO of Wisconsin State Fair Park, said the group looks forward to working with Henderson this year.

"We are excited to have Kelsey take on this important role as Fairest of the Fair," Black told Mid-West Farm Report. "Kelsey's education, experience, and participation in fairs will serve her well as she travels throughout Wisconsin, promoting the Wisconsin State Fair as well as fairs around the state."

Ellie Szczech, of Waukesha County, earned first runner-up, followed Amalia Draxler from St. Croix County, Dane County's Aubrey Schlimgen and Aleah Hunter from Trempeleau County.

Henderson said she enjoyed meeting with other contestants.

"I got to interact with 34 other amazing girls, and they were truly inspiring to me. It was really fun to get to know all of them," she said.

LaPointe on point as new Grove admin Former Union Grove graduate begins duties as village administrator in what will be a busy election year.

By Dave Fidlin

CORRESPONDENT

Stepping into Union Grove's administrator position earlier this year, Connor LaPointe is in familiar territory.

LaPointe graduated a decade ago from Union Grove High School. Since then, he has notched a number of accomplishments in higher education and professionally.

He officially began his leadership duties Feb. 12 and shared his thoughts on the first day on the job during his administrator's report at a Village Board meeting that night.

"I'm looking forward to a long and productive working relationship," LaPointe said as he discussed his enthusiasm for joining the village's employ.

Prior to returning to his old stomping grounds, LaPointe most recently served as city administrator in Wells, Minn., which was a role he first assumed in November 2021. In the preceding two years, he was the city administrator in Claremont, Minn.

Since graduating from UGHS in 2014, LaPointe has earned several degrees, including a technical diploma in business administration from Gateway Technical College in 2017. Two years later, he earned a bachelor's degree in urban and regional studies, and in 2022, a master's degree in urban planning – both from Minnesota State University-Mankato.

As he settles into his new role in Union Grove, LaPointe has several high-priority items on his plate, which he discussed in his brief report to the board.

LaPointe said he will be working with the board and other in-house staffers on the next steps of seeking out Spencer's replacement. The clerk's position will be an important one

Plans also are in motion to work with the Racine County Clerk's office and use resources within that agency during the gap in staffing the village clerk position.

LaPointe in his report also said he is looking forward to meeting with department heads and gaining a deeper understanding of the various facets that feed into local municipal government.

Union Grove has been without a full-time dedicated village administrator for more than

Throughout his time in leadership in Minnesota, LaPointe held membership in a number of organizations, including the Minnesota City/County Management Association, Region Nine Development Commission and the Southeastern Minnesota League of Municipalities.

Star-gazing at Modine-Benstead

Nonprofit group keeps astronomy tradition alive at observatory

By Jason Arndt

EDITOR

Brian Jensen has a fondness for photography and stargazing the night sky.

When he puts both together, he is able to hone his hobby of astronomy, particularly at Modine-Benstead Observatory on the outskirts of Union Grove in Racine County.

"I enjoy the night sky and I enjoy photography, so the two fit well together here," said Jensen.

He serves as president of the Racine Astronomical Society, a nonprofit group of volunteers tasked with maintaining the 3.5acre complex.

"I can put my cameras on the telescopes," he said.

Jensen, who joined the Astronomical Society about 46 years ago, said the observatory depends solely on donations and membership dues to keep the tradition alive on the site.

The observatory contains two large telescopes open for public use once a month from April through October.

The main building includes a 16-inch Newtonian-Cassegrain reflecting telescope designed and built by club members as well as local industries, according to the society's website.

Additionally, the complex has a smaller domed building, which holds a 14-inch Celestron Schmitt Cassegrain reflecting telescope.

Unlike some observatories, the Modine-Benstead facility offers visitors a chance to experience the telescopes themselves, instead of just photographic projections on a large screen. "It is a place where you can actually look through a telescope," Jensen explained. "We actually do look through the eye pieces."

Some members, he explained, also join the open houses by bringing their personal telescopes for viewing on the main building's observation deck.

Jensen estimates about 300 people attend the observatory's open houses on a monthly basis. However, he has seen attendance much higher, with as high as 600 coming to visit at one session this season.

2024 Open House events

The observatory, located at 112 63rd Dr., Union Grove, will hold numerous open house events in 2024.

Jensen said the observatory does not require registration for the open houses, and visitors able to come and go as they please.

Open houses are scheduled as follows:

- Saturday, May 18, 8:30 to 11 p.m. (Spring Astronomy Day)
  - Friday, June 14, 8:30 to 11 p.m.
- Saturday, June 29, 1 to 4 p.m. (Solar Observing Day)
  - Friday, July 12, 8:30 to 11 p.m.
  - Friday, Aug. 16, 8:30 to 11 p.m.
  - Friday, Sept. 13, 8 to 11 p.m.
- Saturday, Oct. 12, 7 to 10 p.m. (Fall Astronomy Day)

The night of an open house there will be a message on the observatory answering machine if the skies are cloudy.

Visitors are not assessed admission, or parking fees, but the Racine Astronomical Society encourages a small donation during visits for the purpose of routine maintenance.

"We are very low budget, we try to keep our costs at a minimum, so we can continue this without incurring so many expenses," Jensen said.

The Racine Astronomical Society recommends visitors dress warmly and remain patient.

According to its website, on occasion, the observatory could have dozens of visitors waiting in line to use a particular telescope.

"Your many questions are expected and welcomed, since part of our club mission is to educate and inspire each of you to participate in the world of amateur astronomy," the website states. "Astronomical equipment you'll find at the RAS observatory will range from a few hundred to several thousand dollars in value." it states.

Jensen said open houses end in October because of weather conditions.

"For best viewing, the inside temperature (at the observatory) must equal the outside temperature, so if it is cold outside, it is going to be cold inside," Jensen explained. "Once it gets cold past October, the number of visitors goes down."

Jensen as well as the Racine Astronomical Society recommends visitors wear warm clothing for the best experience during the early fall open houses at the observatory.

Aspiring astronomers

The Racine Astronomical Society initially began as a meeting in 1956 among Racine area residents interested in the field before becoming incorporated as a non-profit organization four years later.

In 1961, two local business leaders, A.B. Modine, founder of Modine Manufacturing in Racine, and H.M. Benstead from Western Publishing Company spearheaded a fundraising campaign to build an observatory.

Modine and Benstead, the observatory's namesakes, purchased a 3.5-acre plot of land from a farmer with completion of the facility in 1963

"At the time, it was a nice, dark site, and it is high up (in elevation)," Jensen said.

According to the Racine Astronomical Society, club members remained involved in the design and construction of both the observatory and the telescope, the website stated.

"Many other local businesses donated parts and materials needed for the construction," the website stated.

Once completed, the total out of pocket cost for the telescope was $2,500, in 1960s dollars.

While the observatory welcomes visitors for open houses, Jensen said the facility has additional opportunities for paying members, including exclusive nights on a routine basis.

"For members, we have members nights once a month from April through October, so there will just be members out here using their telescopes," Jensen said. "We occasionally offer private tours."

Jensen said the society has about 50 members.

On the lower level of the main building, some astronomy photos taken by members are on display.

Starting a hobby

For people looking to purchase a telescope for personal use, Jensen recommends buying directly from businesses specializing in the device, including Orion.

Orion Telescopes and Binoculars, a California-based company, has been in business since 1975 and offers outdoor optics products for sale directly to customers.

While the company has retail store in California, some products are available in select astronomical dealers in the United States, according to its website.

Jensen estimates people new to astronomy, or casual hobbyists, can purchase a telescope for as low as $300.

"Typically you would buy from companies that area specialized in telescopes," Jensen said. "Orion, they are big and they have got a lot of low-end telescopes."
