Teens show grand, reserve champion steers

By Jason Arndt
STAFF WRITER

Jacob Lois had many options to consider when selecting a steer for the 2023 Kenosha County Fair. However, late in 2022, the then-19-year-old from Wheatland decided on the first steer he saw and spent countless hours working with him in the barn on his grandparents' farm. The countless hours formed a strong bond, which played a key role for Lois, who raised his 1,450-pound crossbred steer he calls Tripp to become a grand champion at the Kenosha County Fair last summer. For Lois, of Wheatland Willing Workers 4-H Club, the victory came in his last year as a junior exhibitor. "I have been showing since in fifth grade," he said at the time. "It feels really good to win in my last year." Lois, a 2022 Westosha Central graduate, recalled the moment he saw Tripp as a young calf and immediately pictured him as an ideal grand champion candidate. "When I bought him, he was the first one I saw, and he had everything that I liked," Lois said. "I named him Tripp. I actually didn't know what I was going to name him. One of my family friends who helped us a lot told me to name him Tripp, and I liked it a lot." Since Lois began working with Tripp, he learned the steer had many fine qualities, including his calm demeanor in the barn and pasture. For many months, Lois spent time grooming, feeding, and walking Tripp leading up to the victory. "He has been an extremely calm steer. Whenever I walk up to him in the pasture and put a halter on him, he just walks along," Lois said. "He just has a great personality and never does anything out of the ordinary. He has been a really good steer." Jacob Lois, son of Pam and Mike, has two older brothers named Brian and Kyle. His brothers have also seen success at the Kenosha County Fair and Wisconsin State Fair. In 2021, Kyle won reserve grand champion steer at the Wisconsin State Fair,

"(Kyle) has taught me a lot about showing," Jacob said. Jacob Lois, however, didn't only have a grand champion steer. He also captured the senior showmanship contest with Tripp. "For showmanship, you've got to know what your steer is capable of, and what it can do," he said. "It pretty much takes practice and you've got to practice all of the time."

Springer showcases reserve champion

Rebecca Springer, who graduated with Jacob from Westosha Central, exhibited the 2023 reserve grand champion steer named Winston.

Springer, a member of Brighton Bombers/Explorers 4-H Club, had a similar experience as Jacob, with the 2023 fair being her last as a junior exhibitor.

"It is my last year showing," she said last summer. "It was a good experience, and I wasn't expecting it either. I was happy and surprised and it was a good finish."

Springer said capturing reserve grand champion was the best finish she had as an exhibitor during the annual event in Wilmot.

As for Winston, a 1,393-pound Maintainer, Springer said he was an ideal animal to work with.

"He is very personable and big boned," she said. "When you get him out in the ring, he knows what he is doing. He was very easy to work with."

Paying it forward

While both concluded their junior show careers last summer, Lois and Springer said at the time they had no plans to walk away from the Kenosha County Fair entirely, as they hoped to serve as mentors for future generations.

Springer said she looks forward to helping youngsters with their animals in the future.

Lois said he has extended family members who will continue the tradition of showing animals at the fair.

"I've got three or four cousins that show steers, so I will be back to help them get their steers ready," he said.
